Garden Checklist

1. Feed Camellias and Azaleas as soon as they have finished blooming. Use an acid plant food. Your nurseryman will tell you what's best.
2. Newly seeded lawns should be covered with a protective layer of finely ground peat or steer manure and kept moist at all times.
3. You'll find a good assortment of citrus trees in nurseries for planting now. Protect the slender trunks from sunburn by wrapping them with burlap.
4. Start fertilizing roses if you haven't already this month. For best blooms, feed once a month.
5. Winter-planted pansies and violas will continue blooming if you keep the faded blooms picked and the plants pinched back to encourage new growth.
